DAY PLAN

A strategy is four answers.

Everything else is just doing the work.

ONE

Who is it for?

TWO

What do you promise them?

THREE

Where will they see you?

FOUR

How will you know it worked?

THE POINT

Answer these four before you open a single app.

The seven steps

Do them in order.

- | | | |
|---|---------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 | Know your customer | Who has the problem |
| 2 | Say what you do | In one sentence |
| 3 | Pick your numbers | What counts as working |
| 4 | Pick where to show up | Where they already are |
| 5 | Make things worth reading | And things worth buying |
| 6 | Turn interest into sales | Make it easy to say yes |
| 7 | Check and improve | Then go round again |

THE RULE

Each step sets up the next one. Skip one and the next becomes a guess you are paying for.

01 Know your customer

You can't sell to someone you don't understand.

Find out four things.

- What is annoying them
- What made them start looking
- Why they might say no
- Where they already spend time

This week: talk to ten customers, and read the worst reviews your competitors have.

Marketers call this customer research.

WHAT YOU END UP WITH

One page about your customer, written in their words.

02 Say what you do

One sentence. Fill in the blanks.

For [who] who [problem], we are the [what you are] that [what you fix]. Others [do it this way]. We [do it better, and here's the proof].

One promise. Three reasons to believe it.

If a competitor could copy your sentence word for word, it isn't working yet.

Marketers call this positioning.

WHAT YOU END UP WITH

A sentence nobody else could say.

03 Pick your numbers

Start at the money and work backwards.

You want $120,000, and each sale is $500

240 sales

1 in 5 people who ask end up buying

1,200 asks

3 in 100 visitors ask

40,000 visits

Now your goal is a to-do list, not a wish.

Count this, not that.

Followers → People who ask to buy

Likes → Saves and shares

Visits → Visitors who get in touch

Marketers call these numbers KPIs.

WHAT YOU END UP WITH

One main number, and three you check. Stop reporting the rest.

04 Pick where to show up

Go where your customer already is, not where everyone is talking.

Pick two. One of each.

ALREADY LOOKING

They want it. They just need to find you.

Google, search, referrals, listings, ads that follow them around.

NEVER HEARD OF YOU

They don't know you exist yet.

Short video, social posts, partners, creators, events.

Give each one six to eight weeks. Change one thing at a time, or you won't know what worked.

Marketers call these channels.

WHAT YOU END UP WITH

Two places, done properly. Not six done badly.

05 Make things worth reading

Posting is not a plan. A routine is.

Give them a small yes before a big one.

WHAT YOU END UP WITH

A routine you can keep, not a posting habit you drop.

06 Turn interest into sales

You don't need more visitors. You need fewer reasons to leave.

- Say what you do at the top of the page
- Show proof before they scroll
- Three clicks to buy
- Four boxes to fill in, not ten
- Reply within four hours

Most sales are lost after someone asks, not before.

DAY 0

Send what you promised

DAY 1

Answer their biggest worry

DAY 3

Show proof it works

DAY 7

Ask for the sale plainly

DAY 14

Offer something smaller

Marketers call this conversion.

WHAT YOU END UP WITH

A path from interest to payment with no dead ends.

07 Check and improve

Then start again at step one.

Try one thing

Keep it small

Check the result

Drop it or do more

EVERY WEEK 30 minutes. Are we on track?

EVERY MONTH What did each customer cost? Move the money.

EVERY 3 MONTHS Rethink the big things: message, places, price.

5% better every month is 80% better in a year.
Same setup. No extra money.

WHAT YOU END UP WITH

A note of what you tried, and a weekly check-in that actually happens.

What to spend it on

Spend on what works, not on what excites you.

If you have no money at all

- Talk to twenty people
- Answer questions in public
- Team up with someone who has an audience
- Ask happy customers to recommend you

THE RULE

A weak message with a big budget just pays for more people to ignore you.

Your first 90 days

From nothing to something that runs, in three months.

WEEK 1–2

Talk to customers

WEEK 3–4

Write your sentence. Set up tracking.

WEEK 5–8

Start your first channel

WEEK 9–12

Keep making things, every week

WEEK 13

Look at what happened. Plan again.

Eight hours a week is enough. Doing it every week matters more than doing a lot at once.

BY DAY 90

You know who you're for. You can prove your promise. Two places are running. One number you trust.

The checklist

You have a strategy when you can tick all seven.

- ☐ One page about your customer

- ☐ A sentence only you could say

- ☐ One main number, and three to watch

- ☐ Two places to show up

- ☐ A routine for making things

- ☐ A path from free to paid

- ☐ Tracking, and a weekly check

SEVEN WAYS TO GET IT WRONG

Starting with the tools · trying to reach everyone · six places at once · changing your message every week · judging after one week · not tracking anything · never asking for the sale.

Now start at step one.

Pick one step. Give it a week. Come back in three months — your answers should change as you grow.
